Speedy Ratification By Senate Called For

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk urged the Senate today to ratify the limited nuclear test-ban treaty, saying it should slow the arms race without damage to the security of the United States.

Rusk testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as lead-off witness in the Kennedy administration's drive for Senate approval of the U.S.-British-Soviet pact to outlaw all nuclear explosions except those underground.

Korea Tense After Arrest Of Top Brass

Former Military Premier's Seizure As Political Move

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—South Korean opposition leaders charged today that the arrest of former military Premier Song Yo-chang, an outspoken critic of strongman Gen. Chung Hee Park, was politically inspired.

Political tensions rose in the capital after retired Lt. Gen. Song's seizure Sunday, three days after he published a letter calling on Park to give up plans to run for president in the October election.

The military junta charged Song with responsibility for the killing of students and citizens during the uprising against President Syngman Rhee's regime in April 1960.

Authorities also revived an old charge accusing him of ordering the execution without trial of an army colonel during the Korean war.

Another former premier, Huh Chung, a leader of civilian opposition to Park's regime, said Song's arrest "so close to the election makes me wonder if the government has a hidden motive."

Huh also criticized U.S. policy toward Park, and called on the United States to reaffirm "its traditional principle" that military men should stay out of politics.

He told an interviewer U.S. policy is to accept Park, if he merely sheds his uniform, as a bona fide civilian candidate for president. He termed this "a great contradiction, lacking in principle."

Democratic party spokesman Kim Dai-chung declared: "The arrest smacks of political retaliation." Kim said that "with the election so close, the arrest has created an ominous feeling among the people."

Road Object Damages New Auto

A freak accident occurred Saturday night on North U.S. Highway 65 on the Cedar Creek Hill when a new 1963 Pontiac sedan struck an old large electric motor lying in the road. Occupants of vehicle escaped injury although the damage to the automobile was said to amount to several hundred dollars.

The car with only 2,100 miles on it owned and driven by Richard D. Knuze, 27, Route 1, Napton, was headed south on the highway when the accident occurred. They were driving at an estimate speed of 60 miles an hour when the motor lying in his lane of traffic was struck. When the motor was hit it drove beneath the car practically tearing away the undercarriage. The motor bouncing under the car ripping away the transmission, tearing out the drive shaft, knocking loose the rear end and bending the frame braces under the car.

When the car's engine died the power steering failed and the car swerved to the right shoulder stopping just before reaching a deep ditch.

Trooper R. W. Bruce, of the State Highway Patrol, reported a resident of the area heard a loud sound as if something had dropped from a truck and a few seconds later the crash of the automobile striking it. He explained the freak accident practically ruined the new automobile.

The car was towed to Marshall by the Vawter Brothers wrecker. Kunze was accompanied by his wife and another couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry D. Belshe, all who escaped injury.

Highway 7 Gives Out Plenty of Flat Tires

WARSAW, Mo. (AP)—Beware of Missouri 7 west of Warsaw, says Sheriff Oliver White.

The freshly-oiled road has been covered with creek gravel that includes sharp flint rock, the sheriff said Sunday.

"That flint cuts right through the tires," he said. "Some persons have had as many as three flat tires at once on their cars. I drove four miles on it the other day and had two flats."

"And boy, that's a mess—Getting out in the broiling sun to change tires and getting that sticky oil all over you."

City Planning Report Ready Wednesday

Sewer Bond Survey to Open Council Sept. 3

Mayor L. L. Studer announced today that Hare and Hare, city planners, are now ready to submit a proposal to the City Council, including an estimated cost to update the 1956 Hare and Hare Survey. Mayor Studer said if some agreement is reached between this firm and the City Council, that priority will be given to the re-zoning aspect of the 1956 survey and to the need of any additional off-street parking lots under the prevailing conditions in the downtown area.

This meeting, for a full and open discussion of the subject, will be held in the Mayor's office at 7 p.m. on Wednesday.

Studer also announced that Burns and McDonnell, consulting engineers on the sewer project, will make a formal public presentation of this document to the Council members and to the 14 member citizens sewer bond issue committee, at the regular Council meeting Tuesday, Sept. 3, at which time it is hoped to establish a date for the proposed sewer bond issue election.

Rusk and President Kennedy conferred by telephone for about 25 minutes Sunday shortly after the secretary arrived in Washington. They will meet at the White House late today as soon as the president returns from Cape Cod. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will be on hand for the meeting.

Kennedy also called Democratic congressional leaders to the White House for a later conference.

Fall Kills Youth On Lake Ozarks

A youth from Excelsior Springs, Mo., was fatally injured about 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning in a fall from a bluff on the Lake of the Ozarks. The youth, Russell O'Dell, 18, died at the Bothwell Hospital at 1:43 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Information regarding the incident was in effect, O'Dell was visiting at Lazy Acres Resort, with Jack Hayden whose grandparents have a cottage there. Several boys had decided to try and climb the bluff located across a cove from the Resort. Two boys reportedly made the climb and two others saw O'Dell when he apparently lost his footing and fell 15 or 20 feet to the rocks along the bottom of the bluff. He was picked up in a boat and taken back to the resort from which a Reser ambulance was called from Warsaw.

The resort is located about 40 miles east of Warsaw on the south side of the Lake of the Ozarks, about the same distance from Camdenton. The ambulance reached the resort about 11 o'clock and had O'Dell at the Bothwell shortly before 1 o'clock.

The body was taken to the Gillespie Funeral Home and later removed to Excelsior Springs to the Hope Funeral Home.

O'Dell was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James O'Dell of Excelsior Springs.

The body is at the Gillespie Funeral Home. Arrangements are incomplete.

Man Struck By Bottle Thrown From Auto

PRINCETON, Mo. (AP)—William Meyer, 25, of Houstonia, Mo., was struck in the eye by a beer bottle thrown from a passing car Saturday night as he was returning home in a convoy after completing summer training with the Missouri National Guard at Camp Ripley, Minn.

The incident occurred 10 miles south of Princeton on U.S. 65. Meyer, a member of Headquarters Battalion, 135th Infantry, Sedalia, was driving a truck in the convoy. The bottle came flying from a passing car and sailed through the window of Meyer's truck.

After receiving emergency treatment at Community Hospital, Meyer was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Kansas City.

Twelve Persons Injured In Traffic Crashes In Area Over Weekend

WATERMELONS WERE STREWN along north Highway 65 Sunday evening following an accident involving a pickup truck, a larger truck and a station wagon. The large truck and station wagon burn in the background. All three vehicles were demolished.

THIS CLOSE-UP VIEW of the burning station wagon gives some indication of the violent impact of the collision and the fury of the fire that followed. Two members of the family riding in this vehicle are in critical condition at Bothwell Hospital.

House Minority Leader

Boosting Halleck As GOP Timber

WASHINGTON (AP)—Colleagues of Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana have quietly and informally launched an effort to win the 1964 Republican presidential nomination for the House minority leader.

They are sounding out some top Republican leaders and report a favorable reaction.

Halleck himself would not comment, but persons close to him said he is doing nothing to nip the move. They represent him as being "available" for the nomination and ready to make a fight for it if victory should appear within reach.

The Halleck backers claim that all the Republicans who have been mentioned as Presidential possibilities, the tough-talking, hard-hitting 63-year-old Hoosier is among the most widely known nationally. His position as House GOP leader and as one of the stars of the weekly "Ev and Charlie Show" sponsored for broadcast by congressional Republicans have kept him in the public eye.

His supporters rule out of the picture such nationally known figures as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Rockefeller's divorce and remarriage, they argue, have hurt his chances. They say Goldwater's record of conservatism doesn't set too well with party kinsmen who will have much to say about the nomination.

That, they conclude, leaves Halleck as a stout dark horse in a wide-open race.

Halleck has harbored high political ambitions for some time. In 1948 he came within an inch of winning second place on the GOP presidential ticket headed by Thomas Dewey of New York.

By a Top Scientist

Challenges Critics Of Space Program

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—A government scientist today challenged critics who want more emphasis on space weapons development, saying the present U.S. space program is laying a broad base for both scientific and military operations.

Homer E. Newell, director of space science for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said:

"Those who argue that we should dispense with the trills of science and space exploration and concentrate on the necessities of military development, forget that we can't really say what the military necessities in space will be and it would be foolhardy to pretend that we can."

In a speech prepared for an artificial satellite conference at Virginia Polytechnic Institute here, Newell said:

"We do not wish to develop a Maginot Line in space, only to have it flanked by forces of greater flexibility. We need to develop in a broad way our space capability so that we will have the ability to move in any direction required by future events to meet any threats along whatever lines might develop."

Newell's defense of the space program came at a time when many defense officials and some congressmen are taking a closer look at military needs in space.

The services, primarily the Air Force, long have pressed for a larger military space role. For this fiscal year, President Kennedy asked $1.67 billion for military space activities, compared with $5.7 billion asked for NASA.

Recently, the House Science and Astronautics Committee said it might be necessary to create a NASA division "for developing military applications from the civil space techniques as they evolve."

Answers
Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I wonder how many mothers are in the same boat. I have knocked myself out for 15 years trying to please my children. But no matter what I do, it's never enough. There must be a sign on my back saying, "kick me."

I get up at 6:30 every morning to prepare breakfast for my teenagers. All I get is complaints. "The milk is too warm. Did you leave it out all night? The cantaloupe is soggy. The cereal is runny. The eggs are too hard."

When I leave a meeting early to pick them up at the club (for the 50th time this summer) I get a sour look and a "Where have you been anyway? We've been waiting five minutes."

How did the children of today get the upper hand? My teenagers make me feel like an employee. I find myself always striving to please—and never quite making the grade. Please tell me where I got off the track. MOTHER, 1963 MODEL.

Dear Mother: Children are not born with "the upper hand." It is given to them—given by parents who don't have the courage to establish the rules for the family. This is called discipline. And when rules of behavior are worked out equitably and seasoned with love, discipline produces respectful, well-adjusted children.

Teenage tyranny is not new, but it is vastly more prevalent than it used to be. This is what Henry James wrote 81 years ago in "Point of View":

"There is nothing in America but young people. The country is made for the rising generation."

Use Adult Dosage For Grasshoppers

As dry weather continues and as more and more of the grasshoppers reach the adult stage, increasing damage on corn, soybean, pasture and hay crops, and gardens is becoming more evident.

With the hoppers approaching maturity plus high daytime temperatures, it will now require the adult dosage rates of the recommended insecticides to give control.

For spraying row crops or corn, sorghum and soybeans, use either 1½ ounces of dieldrin, which is ½ pint of 18.6 per cent emulsifiable concentrate; or 4 ounces of aldrin, which is ½ pint of 45 per cent aldrin emulsifiable concentrate; or 2 pounds of toxaphene, which is 1 and one-third quarts of 60-65 per cent toxaphene emulsifiable concentrate; or 1 pound of Sevin, which is 2 pounds of 50 per cent Sevin wettable powder or 1 quart of Sevin Flowable per acre.

Now you can use these materials on corn or sorghums for ensilage with a proper waiting period. However, do not feed ensilage from treated crops to dairy animals or animals being finished for slaughter. The materials, Sevin and malathion, can be used for dairy animals and animals being finished for slaughter with a 5 to 7 day waiting period.

The waiting period on aldrin is 30 days and on dieldrin, 40 days, and I would like to emphasize again that this waiting period is for livestock that are either dairy animals or being finished for slaughter.

Need More Parent Interest in 4-H Livestock Judging

I had the opportunity this year to give some assistance to the 4-H Livestock Judging Team. The boys who judged for the District Event last Wednesday included Michael Riley of Striped College; Kent Vannoy of the South Side County Liners; and Bill Wall and J. R. Greer of the Longwood 4-H Club.

It takes practice in judging and in giving reasons to be a good 4-H Livestock Judge. Of course, the value of the things learned in 4-H is that they will carry over and be of use in adult life.

Kent Vannoy's father, John Vannoy, works in a local super market. When my wife and I were shopping there on Thursday afternoon, he was asking how our judging team came out. He went on to say how much value Kent was obtaining from his livestock judging practice and how much he expected that it would benefit him in his life's work.

With the number of youngsters taking livestock projects, we should have had more interested in livestock judging. I did invite 12 of the high scoring youngsters to participate in further training and only about half of them responded.

Increased interest among parents and leaders could be instrumental in bringing out more participation for the livestock judging team next year and more youngsters benefiting from that training.

Our team placed fourth among 10 teams in the district event held here last Wednesday, with Mike Riley placing sixth and Kent Vannoy tying for eighth in individual scores among 39 boys and girls. Jackson County placed first in the contest with Cass County, second; Bates County, third; and Pettis County, fourth, and only five points behind Bates County. Benton County would have been in third place except that they had to substitute a boy who was underage for state competition.

Foundation Barley Seed Available

Persons interested in growing good barley should be interested in the 1500 to 2000 bushel of foundation seed our University of Missouri has available. This is B-475 barley and is to be distributed this fall for the production of registered seed in 1964.

This seed has been water treated for control of loose smut and before distribution will be treated with mercury to control covered smut.

Producing barley free of smut will be necessary for selling to the brewing industry, should they continue to show their interest in Missouri barley. Barley samples submitted from Pettis County for Strictly for Grass?

A few Missouri farmers are asking if it is wise to turn a farm into strictly a "grass farm."

Extension Farm Management Specialist, Charles Beer, says an unqualified answer to this question would be a grave error. On some farms it may be wise, while on others it may be extremely foolish to turn the farm into strictly a "grass farm."

A farmer considering whether or not he should make a strictly "grass farm" from his operation should consider the income and cost relationships which will exist. Through budgeting, if he can show he will be better off financially on a grass operation, then this is the wise move. If this is not evident, Beer thinks it would be unwise to try it.

In effect, the answer to this question is simply a dollar and cents answer, depending on the income needs from the individual farm and the type of operation the individual farmer would like to carry on. Some exceptional farms will make money on a grass-beef operation, or on a grass-sale operation, under the right set-up. However, Beer says many will not.

tests last year showed up very well.

I had the opportunity recently to visit with a large grower at Lovell, Wyo., who had recently shipped three cars of malting barley to St. Louis. He claimed to have received $1.90 per bushel at his siding for this grain. That price would be comparable to wheat and normally we can grow more bushels per acre of barley than we can of wheat.

Anyone interested in some of this barley should check with me immediately as orders were to be in the state office by Monday, Aug. 12, which is the present. The price of the seed is $2.85 per bushel, f.o.b. Columbia.

What Should Follow Atrazine?

We have been receiving some questions as to what crop can be grown following the use of residual weed killers, such as Atrazine.

Wheat should not be planted on a field where Atrazine was applied the same year. Soybeans may sometimes be damaged when planted in the spring following treatment the previous year, especially wherever high rates have been used or where there has been less than normal rainfall.

This danger is lessened wherever band treatments of Atrazine have been used or where the land is plowed deeply preceding the soybean crop. There appears to be no danger to either corn or sorghum as a crop the following year after treatment since these crops show high resistance to Atrazine.

We Can Check Corn and Sorgho For Nitrates at the University Extension Center

morning asking the procedure of getting corn, to be made into silage, checked for nitrate content. I told him we had the facilities to make the first check at the University Extension Center. If that check showed any indications of high nitrate, then silage samples could later be submitted to the laboratory at Columbia.

Later that morning Mrs. Longan brought some sample corn stalks to the office. Examination showed some nitrate content at the base of the stalks, but very little above the ears, which is the danger area. It probably will be worthwhile for Bob to have a sample of his silage tested at the University before he starts feeding it, but the indications Friday were that the corn was quite normal.

Feeder Pig and Cattle Sales

The last week of August sees the start of the University sponsored Feeder Pig Sales. They start out at Salem on Aug. 26, at Marble Hill on the 27, at Doniphan on the 28, at Alton on the 29 and at Butler (over in Bates County) on Friday, Aug. 30.

Feeder Cattle Sales also start at Salem on Thursday, Sept. 5. Successive sales are at Ellington on Sept. 6, at Lebanon on Sept. 9, at Versailles on Tuesday, Sept. 10, at Potosi on Sept. 11 and 12, at Greenville on Sept. 13 and at St. Genevieve on Sept. 14.

D.H.I.A. Results

The July tests of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association showed nine herds and 283 cows on test. Arthur B. Cordes again had the high herd with his seven cows averaging 1434 pounds of milk and 44 pounds of butterfat for the month.

John W. Rissler had the two high cows in D.H.I.A. with one producing 82 pounds of butterfat and the other 78 pounds for the month of July. Wallace Cordes had the high cow in D.H.I.R. and C.E.P. with a 3-year old Holstein producing 87 pounds of butterfat for the month. Robert Longan had the second high cow in C.E.P., producing 82 pounds.

Five cows in the association completed a 305 day lactation of over 500 pounds of butterfat. Three of them produced 568, 569 and 578 pounds of butterfat for the year respectively and were owned by Robert N. Longan. The other two, with slightly lower production, were owned by Joe W. Davis.

Tomato Researchers Seek Varieties for Missourians

By Merle Vaughan
Director, Pettis County
University Extension Center
On Saturday, July 20, some 110 tomato enthusiasts attended the Tomato Field Day held at the University of Missouri Horticulture Experimental Farm at New Franklin, Mo. On display were tomatoes from nine different countries, 10 different states, commercial varieties and experimental lines.

These tomatoes are part of a rather significant research program conducted by the Department of Horticulture under the direction of Dr. V. N. Lambeth. The purpose of this program is to develop tomato varieties and hybrids adapted to Missouri conditions, and develop types that will meet the desires of all who are interested in growing tomatoes.

In Missouri, tomato production is quite varied. We have greenhouse growers, canning tomato producers, market gardeners and home gardeners. Each group needs a specific type of tomato to meet production and market needs. As for the home gardener—his interests vary widely in what he wants in a tomato variety.

Fertilization Useful For Some Trees

The physical characteristics of the soil are usually more important than the nutritional to the growth of shade trees.

According to L. E. McCormick, extension forestry specialist at the University of Missouri, trees do not require high fertility levels, but they do require plenty of moisture and soils which are loose enough for the roots to penetrate.

Trees which have been defoliated or injured will benefit from the application of fertilizer, says McCormick. Also old trees which have depleted the available soil nutrients will respond to fertilizer. Leaves which are smaller than normal or too pale in color may indicate the need of fertilizer, but such symptoms can also indicate root or stem injury.

A standard recommendation is one pound of commercial fertilizer for each inch of trunk diameter. The fertilizer should be put in holes 20 inches deep and made with a crowbar. The holes should be located two feet apart and directly beneath the tips of the branches.

depends upon two things: heredity and environment. The breeding program being conducted by Dr. Lambeth is an attempt to incorporate certain hereditary characteristics in a variety of hybrid. Such characteristics might include: wilt resistance, nematode resistance, fruit size, fruit color, crack resistance, earliness, and many others. Emphasis at the present time is on fruit size, crack resistance and earliness. We now have wilt resistance bred into tomato varieties and of course we always look for productivity—the ability of the tomato plant to set fruit under varying conditions.

Some of Dr. Lambeth's releases that you may be familiar with are Surprise, Supreme and Tom-boy. Several others are in the "near" stage for release. You'll probably be hearing of them in the next few years.

Heredity though, is just the first step in successful tomato production. Environment plays a big part. Environment includes such things as soil type, depth, drainage and fertility. It includes location. Do your tomatoes receive full sunlight? Are they protected from winds? Do tree roots compete with tomatoes for moisture and nutrients?

Environment also includes weather conditions. Such phenomena as wet periods, drought periods, high temperature, cool periods, frosts, wind, rain and hail all have a marked influence on the performance of any tomato variety.

Environment also includes your ability to do the job when it needs to be done. Did you set out good, healthy plants? Did you keep them cultivated and fertilized? Did you provide them with sufficient water? How about insect and disease control? They are a part of the environment also.

If you grew staked tomatoes did you stake, tie and prune them properly? Did you mulch your down tomatoes? Many of the above practices not only must be performed properly, but at the right time in order to provide the best environment for the plant.

So you can see environment plays a big part in the success story of a tomato. This is true of all vegetables. Each vegetable has certain hereditary characteristics that can only be expressed if grown in a favorable environment. Sometimes weather works against us, and we find it difficult to provide a suitable environment. By the same token, our neglect of a good garden practice may have a similar effect.

I've seen more green thumbs on painters than I have on gardeners, but I'm willing to tip my hat to the gardener who is able to manipulate the environmental factors in such a way as to express fully the hereditary capabilities of the variety or hybrid. He truly has the "green thumb!"

McVey Bible Purchased By Local Woman

Mrs. W. E. Bruce, 1700 West Tenth, recently purchased an old Bible of the McVey family, when R. J. McVey, Independence broke up housekeeping.

In it was the family record of Reuben Josia McVey, who was born in Georgetown in 1841, and was married to Susan Allen Townsend, who was born in Milltown, Ky., in 1848. Here, too, was their wedding picture, taken at the time of their marriage, Dec. 2, 1866.

The old Bible, with part of the back missing and the pages yellowed contained things that had been put there through the years by Susan. It tells when their children were born, and when the youngest, Reuben, started to school, started wearing long pants and when he was baptized. The record told that her husband died on Sept. 3, 1883. In the Bible is a lock of her hair in a tiny envelope with her name on it, two songs in her handwriting and signed by her, Valentines and Christmas cards from her children and grandchildren, a paper doll, a tiny hand cut out of paper of one of her babies, and many newspaper clippings, one with a picture of her with a quilt she had pieced when she was 83; one of the death of Absalom McVey, who once owned most of the land that is now Sedalia; an announcement of the approaching marriage of her daughter, Anna to Edgar

Johnson, and many other things. One clipping told of the first anniversary of the awarding of the shops to Sedalia, which was March 28, 1904. The clipping was March 28, 1905.

The second paragraph of the article stated:

"Today is the first anniversary of that memorable event and finds what a year ago was a lifeless little tottering burg, a city alive to all purposes and up and doing with a population increased several thousand all of whom are enterprising progressive and aggressive. New buildings have been erected, hundreds of residences are being built or are planned for, and property valuations have been doubled.

"On what was a barren tract of land east of the city can now be found the greatest activity. Mammoth new buildings are going up and a small army of men are straining every effort to complete one of the largest contracts ever made in the state. Things have changed mightily and still greater changes will be the city's lot before the next anniversary rolls around."

Missouri May Have To Reapportion

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Missouri has to get ready for reapportionment, if a recent Oklahoma reapportionment case is upheld, Missouri Secretary of State Warren Hearnes said Sunday.

Hearnes, in an interview on a St. Louis television station ("Viewpoint" on KTVI) said unless a federal court's decision is reversed in the Oklahoma case, Missouri will have to follow suit. He said he has studied the case and found the decision was far more reaching than the historic Baker vs. Carr decision, in which the U.S. Supreme Court ordered Tennessee's Legislature must be reapportioned.

In the Oklahoma case, a federal court ordered the Legislature to reapportion itself. Two proposals were submitted and the court rejected both. The court then ordered reapportionment and spelled out how it was to be done including redistricting.

On other matters, Hearnes repeated charges that Lt. Gov. Hilary A. Bush and the Senate's president pro tem, Sen. Albert Spradling, D - Cape Girardeau, purposely prevented bills from being considered in the recent legislative session.

Bush and Hearnes have filed for the Democratic nomination for governor in the 1964 primary. Spradling has endorsed Bush for the post.

Hearnes, on other questions, said he does not believe state taxes will have to be increased in the next four years, unless a major depression or "other catastrophe" occurs.

He said he does not think a special session of the Legislature will be called by Gov. John Dalton.

The secretary of state said Missouri must end racial discrimination, but he doubts that the governor has the power to end it with an executive order.

1400 Inmates Riot After Death of One

PUTNAMVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Buckshot from police riot guns and flying bricks injured seven inmates at the Indiana state penal farm at Putnamville late Sunday night, as a brief protest riot touched off by the death of a prisoner was put down.

A blaze set by inmates nearly destroyed the farm's laundry. Six dormitories were badly damaged by the rioting prisoners. About 500 of the farm's 1,400 prisoners were involved.

State Corrections Commissioner Arthur Campbell said the brick-hurling prisoners apparently felt that inmate Merrill Hobbs of Indianapolis, who died Sunday night of pneumonia, had not received proper medical care.

Study Freeway Plan For East St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A 6.5 mile freeway between Cahokia and Venice, the first step toward the development of an East Side Mississippi Riverfront area, is being studied by the Illinois Division of Highways.

The project, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch said in its Sunday edition, could possibly lead to the construction of many tourist attractions and other industry in the East St. Louis.

The riverfront area, mostly in East St. Louis, is at present almost inaccessible because of the lack of a major roadway. The freeway would cost in the neighborhood of $18 to $25 million, the paper said.

Police said that when they entered the trailer they found Ward asleep. They awakened him and asked him where his wife was.

abrasions and bruises and were not admitted to the hospital.

The Roughton family resides at No. 16 Saturn, Missile Manor, west of Sedalia.

Fred Newton Cook, 32, and his wife Elinor, 23, of Seymour, Mo., who were riding in the large truck received minor scratches when they climbed out of their truck. They did not need medical treatment.

Trooper R. W. Bruce of the State Highway Patrol assisted by Trooper Richard Joos, investigated the accident. According to Trooper Bruce, Roughton said the 1952 Dodge pickup truck driven by Alva Rasa, appeared to be weaving on the highway and as it reached the crest of the hill crossed the center line, and the large truck loaded with watermelons driven by Cook collided. That was about all he could remember, the trooper reported.

Cook told the Troopers he was headed north on the highway and had a load of about 1,100 melons on the truck. He said he noticed the car weaving and suddenly cross the line as if to head for a driveway, and apparently noticed the approaching truck and made a quick jerk of the car, but they collided in a side-swiping angle.

The Rambler was apparently unable to stop because of the suddenness of the collision of the pickup and big truck which swerved to the west, in front of the Rambler which crashed into the right front end of the huge truck. The impact was never felt by either Mr. or Mrs. Cook.

Cook said when he saw the truck start across his lane of the road he immediately applied his brakes and went into a skid and after they collided his left front wheel seemed to lock causing his truck to swerve to the left across the southbound lane.

"I never knew another vehicle was involved until we got out of the truck and started to crawl down over the spilled melons," Cook said. "Then I saw the front end of the truck had rolled over on the front of this car."

The Rasa car after the collision went into a spin back across the south lane and crashed against the embankment and turned over, the vehicle headed back north.

Cook said the truck struck the embankment and rolled on its side, he called to his wife to get out. He said he was unable to get her out through the left door which was upward, so he smashed the windshield with his hand causing a slight cut on one knuckle. They crawled out through the open space, over the melons and the front of the 1963 Rambler station wagon.

"We no sooner were out when a crowd of persons arrived. I tried to get them to help get the injured out of the vehicles, and they seemed stunned or something," Cook said, "then I noticed the legs of a child protruding out ation which necessitated the taking of seven stitches inside the wound and 11 stitches on the outside to close.

According to the police who investigated, the incident occurred at Pettis and Moniteau, near the "Wiggle Inn," shortly after 1 o'clock Sunday morning. He was taken to the Bothwell Hospital by a friend and Dr. H. O. Wilbur treated him at the emergency room.

Green swore out an assault against Ira Samuel Newbill, 17, of 317 West Johnson street, and an assault information was sworn out by Newbill for Green. Both were released on signed bonds for $50 to appear in police court. However later in the morning, a call was made to the police station asking the charges be dismissed and the party was told they would have to appear and drop charges in police court.

Newbill complained that he was bitten on the thumb by Green.

Sunday morning William Lower, 1438 South Carr, reported his light tan Buick was stolen sometime Saturday night. The car was later recovered in Kansas City, where two subjects were taken into custody.

Timmy Dale, 316 East Seventh, reported that his bicycle that had been stolen earlier, was returned home with two flat tires.

Local Woman Is Cover Girl On Magazine

A picture of Mrs. Deanie Perkins Hanson, 200 South Gentry, appeared on the cover of the St. Louis Globe Democrat Sunday Magazine section, Sunday, taken as she was sitting on Public Beach No. 2, at the Lake of the Ozarks between swims. There were many bathers in the background but the closeup of Deanie was exceptionally good.

The picture, said Deanie, was taken about six weeks ago, and at that time they told her they were going to use it for the Lake of the Ozarks story of the Sunday Magazine section, but it had been so long Deanie had forgotten about it.

Sunday she was down there again and a friend saw it and called her. Everybody who knows Deanie recognized her as the cover girl as soon as they saw the picture.

from under the melons. I got hold of him and pulled him out. Then I went to the station wagon, got out the other children, and lifted the woman out. She and her husband both had safety belts fastened.

"People standing nearby said they knew they couldn't get the man out when the fire broke out. I called for help, then got on the hood of the car, reached in and freed his head which seemed to be cramped down. I tried to release the safety belt but a steering wheel spoke was in the way. I finally twisted it somewhat and was able to flip the belt loose.

I climbed in and pushed the seat backward with my feet. The man apparently came to enough to realize he was trapped and pleaded to be gotten out of the car. But I told him he would have to help himself, which he seemed to be unable to do. As I pushed against the seat, trying to shove it back so he could get free, another man came up between the car and truck and lifted him out of the car.

"I went around to the other truck, and tried to get the man out when I also noted a pair of legs protruding out from under the truck. I left the man and called to other men to come and lift the truck up which they did and we were able to free the woman from under the car, then we got the man out of the truck."

Cook said they got the people off the highway and over on the shoulder of the pavement across from the wreck to await arrival of ambulances.

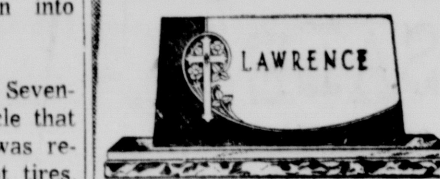

Gillespie's ambulance was called and went to the scene, it was several minutes before calls for additional ambulances was made, so seven of the eight injured were put in the Gillespie ambulance and rushed to the Bothwell Hospital. Ewing's ambulance was next on the scene and picked up Roughton and took him to the hospital. Additional ambulances from Gillespie's and Ewing's made the run as did the ambulance from McLaughlin's.

The Pettis County fire truck arrived on the scene a few minutes after the ambulances had arrived and two lines of booster hose were used in putting out the fire in and around the cab of the large truck and the front end and interior of the Rambler.

Wreckers from Bacon's service station, Park's service station and Ray and Gene DX service station went to the scene. Bacon's wrecker hooked onto the truck and jerked it back and off of the pavement so firemen could get in closer and Park's wrecker pulled the Rambler back away from the truck. Those wreckers picked up the respective vehicles and towed them to Sedalia while the other wrecker brought the Rasa truck to Sedalia.

Trooper Bruce reported the seat

Claud Sappington of the Missouri Highway Department had a crew of workmen go to the scene to clean up the mess created from broken melons on and along side the highway.

A Lebanon, Mo., man is in critical condition at the Bothwell Hospital from injuries suffered when struck by an automobile on State Route 52, near Stover about 1 o'clock Sunday morning. He is Henry Clay Ruble, 28.

The State Highway Patrol surmises Ruble had stopped to offer aid to persons in a stalled 1958 Buick car which was parked on the highway without lights, and was struck by one of the cars.

He suffered a compound fracture of the right leg, fracture of the left leg, fracture of the pelvis, shattered fracture of the right elbow, lacerations over the left eye, possible knee fracture, and possible internal injuries.

The patrol reported the accident occurred as a 1963 Mercury Meteor station wagon, driven by Richard Hines, 33, of Stover, was headed east, and came upon the Buick car which was in his lane parked, without lights, and also headed east. Hines swerved the car to the left into the west lane and sideswiped a 1957 Ford convertible driven by Kenneth Eugene Waisner, 20, of Marshall. Hines car continued on swerving back into the east lane and off the highway on the right side. The convertible swerved to the left and went into a ditch on its left side.

Ruble according to the Patrol was apparently standing beside the parked car assisting them. A Pontiac automobile believed to have been driven by Ruble was parked on the shoulder of the road and did not become involved in the accident.

According to the Patrol it was believed the car which apparently was broken down had been occupied by two girls and a boy all who disappeared from the scene shortly after the accident. Police are endeavoring to learn the identity of the trio.

Also injured as a result of the accident were Hines, the driver if the station wagon, bruises to the left arm and leg of a minor nature; Waisner who received a bruised left elbow; and Miss Nancy Kelley, 20, of Marshall, who had a laceration of the right knee of a minor nature.

The injured were all taken to the Gunn Clinic at Versailles from where Ruble was brought to Sedalia in the Schriver-Stevenson ambulance to the Bothwell Hospital where Dr. Elliott Braverman is attending him.

The wrecked vehicles all extensively damaged were towed to Stover as was the Pontiac car believed to belong to Ruble.

Recently we ran across a bit of philosophy which we would like to share with you. A man was discussing his relationship with his neighbor, and he said: "There is NOTHING I would not do for my neighbor... there is NOTHING he would not do for me... consequently we go through life doing nothing for each other." There is a little

How It Was, Living Behind The Great Wall

EDITORS NOTE—The author of this article is one of the hundreds of East Germans who escaped to the West despite the Berlin wall, barbed wire, mine fields and trigger-happy guards. On the eve of the second anniversary of the wall she recalls her life behind it and the reasons people risk their lives to escape. She uses a pseudonym to protect her family and friends still in East Germany.

By KATERINA THOMAS
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—I lived for 16 months behind the Berlin wall. Except for the year my husband spent in jail during the height of Stalinist frenzy back in 1952-53, they were my worst months under communism.

Eight months ago my husband and I managed to escape. It meant leaving a large family home and garden where we had spent 24 happy married years. It meant leaving behind almost everything we owned, including the worthless sentimental things a woman treasures. It meant leaving friends with whom we shared hard and unforgettable years.

It was a sacrifice and a great risk. Other people might still escape by the route we took so I won't go into details.

But we read every few days of the dangers people run to escape. They scale the Berlin wall in a hail of bullets. They swim the icy Havel River in freezing weather. They crawl through tunnels that might cave at any moment or run across mine fields that could blow them up at any step. Some are killed by Communist border guards.

What drives people to gamble their lives in order to leave their homes.

It might sound strange to American ears, but I'm sure the chief reason is the longing for freedom to think and do what one wants. The simple freedoms that Americans take for granted are worth a life to many East Germans.

Food is poorly distributed there. Variety is limited. The shops are poorly stocked. It always seems that just the thing you want is sold out. But no one starves and no one goes without the real necessities. And no one—or at least no one I ever heard of—leaves at the risk of his life because of hunger or material things.

It is simply that after a while you can't breathe any more. You are too restricted. Your ideas count for nothing if they do not agree with those of the Communists. Your individual wishes are ignored. A person's individuality and freedom count for nothing. This is what people learn to hate.

I don't regret for a minute our decision to flee, even though it meant two people well past their prime had to start again from scratch. My husband was one of the highly qualified scientists whom the Communists pay well and our life was materially better than most. But this was far outweighed by the disadvantages of life under communism.

What did I personally dislike most? I think it was the way children were treated.

In her last years of high school my daughter would be assigned to write political essays on the most impossible subjects.

"What can you ever write about that?" I asked.

"Oh, it's so simple," she answered, and then rolled out a string of Communist clichés and party gobbledegook.

We would have a good laugh. "But you can't write that. They'll know you are making fun of them."

"But I can," she said. And she did. And she got a good mark. It was a joke on her not-too-bright Communist teacher. But in the long run it is terrible for those children, being forced to write and say what they really don't believe.

Probably more parents leave East Germany for the sake of their children than for any other reason.

Through mutual friends I know of a young East German girl who married a West German. He was allowed to visit her twice, but the Communists wouldn't let her leave. In desperation the girl tried to escape by hiding in her husband's car. She was discovered at the border. The young man went to jail for eight months. He is now free and lives in the West. His wife is stuck in East Germany.

An older couple of our acquaintance took care of their little granddaughter, Bettina, after her parents fled to the West. Eventually friends took the child to East Berlin and smuggled her out, too. When authorities learned the child was gone, they held the grandparents responsible. Only by last-minute flight did they escape arrest and imprisonment.

Western magazines, books and newspapers are forbidden. Permission is denied to travel to the West even for funerals or weddings, even when one's own father, mother or children are involved. Doctors and scientists may not attend conferences abroad.

I clearly remember Aug. 13, 1961. For years my husband and I felt we should stay in East Germany. One has a responsibility to one's home and people, and problems are not solved by running away.

But we had finally decided to flee and our two children had already gone to the West. We planned to follow after a short vacation in a health resort. There we heard the news of Aug. 13.

Our hearts sank. Our escape route was blocked. It took nearly two years to find a way out.

The one good the wall did was to wake people to the horror of communism.

Many Make TV Show Predictions

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD — The favorite indoor and poolside sport of this show business town now, as always in late summer, is predicting next season's hit television shows.

The community is full of self-proclaimed experts on the subject, and the most fascinating aspect of the game is that almost anybody can be right.

Obviously no one ever deliberately sets out to make a really bad television series, no matter how dismal the results. Equally obviously, no one, not even the shrewd men who make the program decisions and place them on network schedules, has found any surefire way to predetermine whether an expensive effort will turn out to be a lion or a mouse.

After two weeks of visiting television sets, talking with producers, directors, stars, executives and, of course, press agents, I have been assured that every new series encountered undoubtedly will be a hit.

But there is really no way to tell. Previews of an upcoming show don't help: sometimes a single show is a dandy and the rest prove to be dogs. Often many changes are made between an exciting pilot film and the actual series. There is a strict Hollywood law that nobody connected with a new show must be other than ecstatic about it.

For what preseason talk is worth, there's a lot about the incoming NBC Bill Dana comedy series. By coincidence it will occupy the Sunday night spot vacated by "Ensign O'Toole," which received the same kind of talk last year at this time but survived for only one season.

CBS' "My Favorite Martian"

also is a Sunday evening entry and the subject for particularly enthusiastic predictions. This is unusual in that it will attempt to marry fantasy and satire in a comedy. It concerns the adventures of a visitor from another planet who arrives equipped with built-in antennae and assorted powers including ability to become invisible at will.

The theory is the kiddies will enjoy the magic and the adults appreciate the satire and everybody will be happy.

ABC and many of the crystal-ball gazers are expecting interesting response to "Burke's Law," a action series done in a debonair and sophisticated manner. It stars a millionaire man-about-town who is also a police detective.

A number of shows have been beset by production troubles. ABC's "Travels of Jaimie McPheeters" lost its producer by death; CBS removed the producer and took most of the writers off "Tre Judy Garland Show" after five shows had been taped; NBC's "Richard Boone Show," an anthology series, has been set back by the illness of playwright Clifford Odets, story editor of the series.

But until premier dates in September and October, the promise of each of the 32 new shows is bright.

Police were convinced that most of the gang must still be in Britain. The precision with which the gang worked aroused speculation that the master mind was a former military man.

Spurred by reward offers totaling 260,000 pounds ($720,000), hundreds of Britons called police stations, claiming to have information that might help the police.

Police said he apparently had dozed off and dropped his cigarette.

Peace, It's Not Half Bad

Even though we know the Russians too well to drop our guard, it must be admitted that it is a pleasant change from the Cold War to be on the receiving end of Russian effusions of friendship.

Relations between our two countries could not have been more cordial than they have the past few weeks. Our envoys to Moscow and those from Britain could not have been more warmly treated.

The signing of the nuclear test ban treaty, limited and imperfect as it is, makes worthwhile the seemingly fruitless years of argument that went before.

Assuming that the Soviets may intend to abide by the treaty, there is still the nagging suspicion that this sudden sweet reasonableness may not be quite genuine, that there is some ulterior reason which may, in the end, work to our harm.

The obvious answer is that Khrushchev is mending his fences facing the West because of deteriorating relations with the East — Red China. Knowledgeable observers seem to agree that the Russian about-face is genuine, that it does bode well for the future of mankind, and that we should take advantage of it.

Surely the vehemence with which the Red Chinese have denounced the treaty — and Khrushchev and the Russian Communist party for signing it — indicates that the nuclear ban is hardly just part of a larger Soviet plot, any more than Gen. De Gaulle's maverick behavior is part of over-all Western strategy.

Whatever the truth may be, Americans are accepting the treaty with restrained relief. Opinion polls are almost unanimous in painting a picture of the man in the street who is wary and not exactly overjoyed, but is nevertheless hopeful that some good will come of it.

Americans' attitudes might be summed up as: "It's better than nothing." Or to paraphrase Churchill: Ban ban is better than war war."

Senate scrutiny of the treaty will be thorough, but approval is expected to be speedy and overwhelming.

The wonderful thing is that some good will come of the treaty — if it lasts — simply through natural processes. Fallout will begin to decrease and will decrease more and more as the years pass.

How many unborn human beings will be saved because of this, perhaps only future — and grateful — generations may know.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Powerful Influence of Oil Interests

(Editor's Note — Drew Pearson has gone abroad to interview world leaders and report on the prospects for peace. The Washington scene is covered by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Oregon's fiery Democrat, Sen. Wayne Morse, his voice crackling with anger, his bushy eyebrows bristling, seized the Senate floor one day to deliver a lecture his colleagues didn't want to hear.

"Great courage is required," he roared, "to stand against the powerful oil and gas combine of this country, which exercises such a powerful influence in the halls of Congress that it is able to steal from the American people. The industry is supported by members of Congress who do not represent the people of this country, but who really represent the gas and oil interests."

Some Senators squirmed a little, as if Morse's open mouth were causing an uncomfortable draft. But most of them put on an act of massive indifference.

If his rebuke stung any ears, if his barbs pricked a few consciences, they showed no evidence of it but merely sat listening in studied nonchalance. Yet the speech the Senators pretended not to hear happened to be true!

No group in America collects more benefits from Uncle Sam and passes out more favors to politicians than the recklessly greedy, unbelievably wealthy oil barons.

Political Pay-Offs

They keep the taxpayers' money circulating in dizzy circles, perhaps the closest thing to perpetual motion in corruption ever achieved. The more the patricians of petroleum drain from the government through tax loopholes, the more they slip to politicians to make the loopholes in the tax laws still bigger.

Few men who administer or vote on oil matters have not been tempted. For their favors, the oil barons offer them campaign contributions, law fees, even cash in paper sacks.

Many a candidate for Congress, down to his last campaign dollar, has been promised funds in return for his pledge to vote "right" on oil.

Sometimes the contribution is channeled through campaign committees, which permits a candidate to report it without advertising that it came from the oil interests. Sen. Frank Moss, Utah Democrat, once turned down a $5,000 oil offer that was dangled before him by the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee.

The catch: He would have been obliged to vote for the oil depletion allowance if he had taken the money.

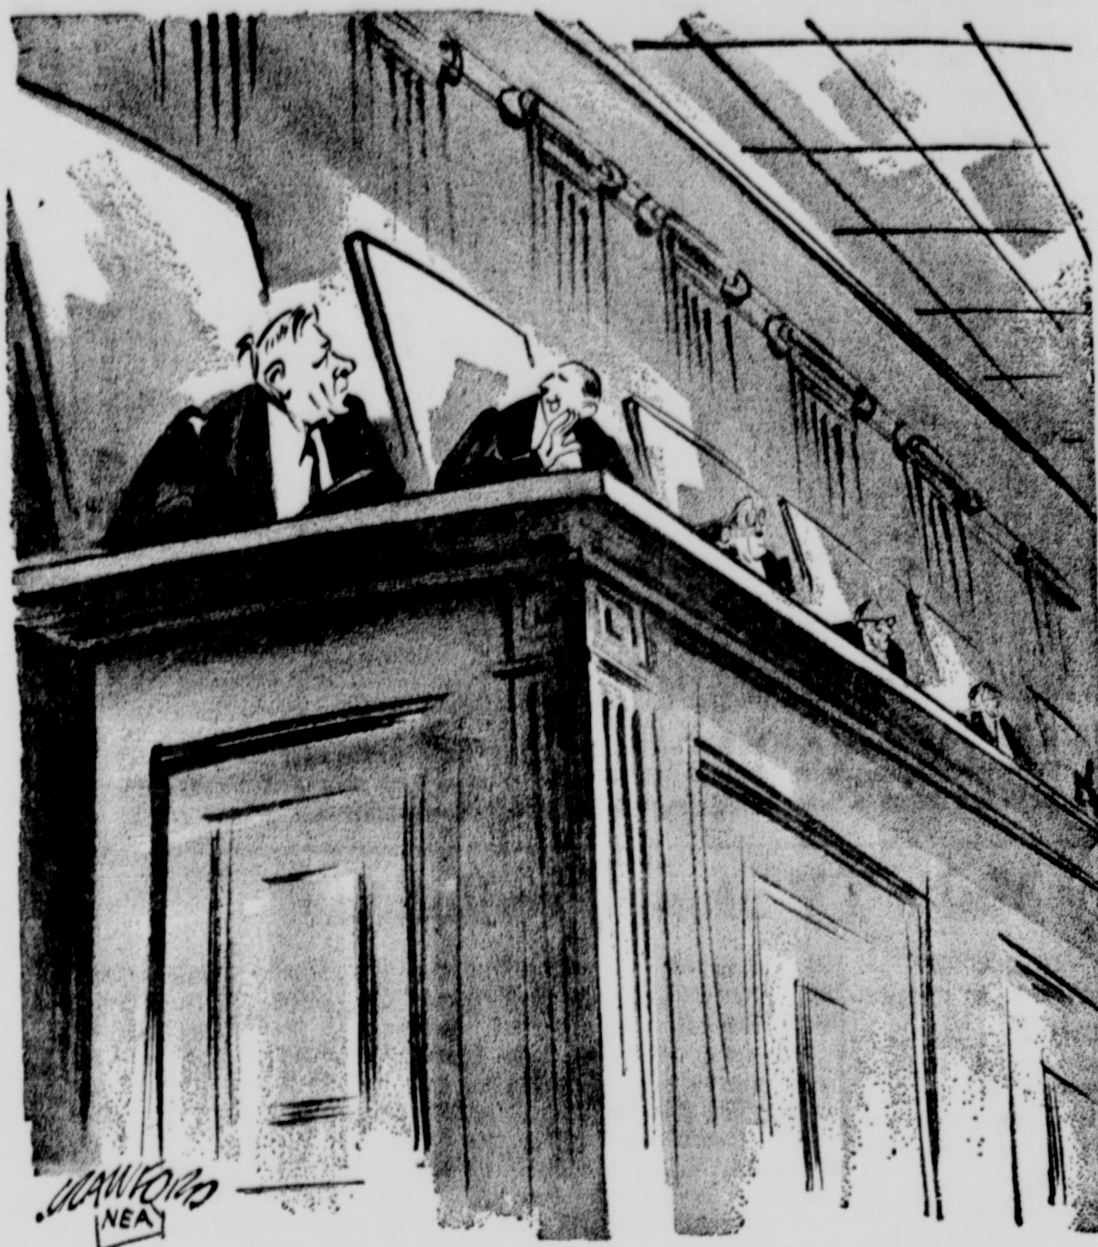

The first feeler from the oil crowd usually is held out cautiously. A senator in debt, say, might be sounded out indirectly about accepting oil money.

For instance, a Senate employee recently asked freshman Sen. Tom McIntyre, New Hampshire Democrat, about his campaign deficit. McIntyre said he was still about $10,000 in debt.

The employee remarked quietly that he

Southern Demos Fail to Get Message

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — "If we must disagree," said Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, as if cheering up a debating society with a fairy tale, "let's disagree without being disagreeable."

This was his message Sunday to California Democrats already fussing among themselves a year before President Kennedy runs for re-election. Southern Democrats didn't get the message. Republicans won't, either.

The Southerners are so mad at Kennedy for his civil rights efforts that Mississippi gubernatorial candidates ran last week as anti-Kennedy men and Sunday Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia said: "I'm a Democrat but I have no intention of getting out and knocking myself out to support the Kennedy administration next year."

Russell not only has voted against the President on a good part of his domestic legislative proposals but will lead the expected Southern filibuster against Kennedy's civil rights bill.

Kennedy was caught in a political revolving door on this one.

He had to be pushed into offering the bill—by direct action of Negroes North and South — and while it will cost him heavily among white Southerners it would have cost him among Northern Negroes if he hadn't.

But the Southerners will have trouble deciding which way to turn if New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is the Republicans' 1964 choice to oppose Kennedy.

Rockefeller, whose state has a large Negro population, is plugging for civil rights legislation, too. He already is taking swipes at the one man who seems to have the edge on him at this moment, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Goldwater, idol of the conservative and far right Republicans, was recently admonished by Rockefeller, who can hardly be disturbed by the thought, that if he doesn't watch out he'll become a captive of the radical right.

The New Yorker accused the Arizona of writing off the Negro vote before the 1964 campaign begins.

Goldwater, who has made some strong statements on running the government without explaining all of them, retorted that he wasn't writing off anybody's vote and accused Rockefeller of encouraging political cannibalism.

He said Rockefeller was trying to get Republicans to eat Republicans and complained the governor was using the "guilt by association" technique in identifying him with the "radical right."

And at this very moment some of the Republican leaders in Congress have been cautious not only about the civil rights bill but about the limited nuclear test-ban treaty Kennedy recently got from Khrushchev.

While they hemmed and hawed, a Negro leader—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People—tried to build a fire under them with a little warning.

"I am inclined to agree that the Republicans want the Negro to be free, but free somewhere over yonder."

"If they are worrying about getting Negro support, instead of carrying on a negative campaign on the civil rights bill they should adopt a positive policy and out-Kennedy the Kennedys."

While white Southerners would be confused if they had to choose between Kennedy and Rockefeller Northern Negroes will be confused if Kennedy should now go less than all-out for his civil rights bill and they have to choose in 1964 between him and a highly conservative Republican.

Yet, if Kennedy loses Southern white votes over civil rights, his nuclear test ban treaty will get him votes elsewhere, which is something the Republicans in Congress can hardly be unaware of in deciding how to vote on the treaty.

Things ought to be getting more disagreeable right along now.

Beauty In Working Hands

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I detest the drudgery of having to starch after the washing is done. I now mix my starch in a pail and carry it out with me to the clothesline.

The clothes to be starched are washed along with everything else up to this point. As I hang the clothes, anything to be starched is done just as it goes on the line. Before I realize it the pesky job is done.

Also, did you know we all have beautiful hands? I once complained to a wonderful person about my unfeminine, work-roughened hands. Her reply was "Beautiful hands are those that do work that is honest, kind and true." Thank you for an inspiring column.—MRS. E. C.

DEAR POLLY — My first hint comes from my boy friend. He lives in a house with two other men and mending is a problem. He says his quick and easy way to repair a hole in a trouser pocket is with a stapler. As I saw quite a bit the idea made me shudder but I guess other fellows might be glad to do the same thing when there is nobody to sew the hole.

I am a secretary in an office where there are over 50 men. For those emergencies that always seem to be turning up, I keep in my desk drawer a pair of extra nylons for myself (men notice a runner a mile away) as well as black, beige and white thread and some shirt buttons. The beige and black thread are for coat buttons that come off. Also always have books of matches. I do not smoke but when I am in a restaurant, I always pick up a pack of matches to add to my board. The men certainly appreciate these extras. — MISS S. R.

CAPITOLMinority Rights Problem
Facing State Commission

In many parts of the country these days, it's a common sight to see and read about minority groups massing to protest their indignation against discrimination allegedly imposed by the majority whites.

Missouri is not immune to this situation, with a great deal of unrest centering around the problem of public accommodations. But on the whole, however, many state officials, particularly educators, feel Missouri has advanced well in combatting its racial problems.

During the recently ended session of the General Assembly, a public accommodations bill passed the House, only to die far down on the Senate calendar. Some groups have urged Governor Dalton to call a special session to handle this matter, but it is believed the cost would be prohibitive.

To Peter C. Robertson, the new executive director of the Missouri Commission on Human Rights, the defeated public accommodations bill was a set back. "I think there is a definite need for such legislation," Robertson said.

"I don't think there is an area of our national life today where our unsolved problems are so tremendous as in the field of human rights," he added. Robertson described his personal feelings about discrimination this way: "I start from the assumption, as do the Constitution and most great religions, that all people are basically equal."

Robertson is a 27-year-old non-practicing attorney who was an administrative assistant to Rep. Henry S. Reuss of Wisconsin prior to being named executive director of Missouri's Human Rights Commission.

As one means of tackling discrimination in Missouri, Robertson said, the Commission hopes soon to publish for general distribution a pamphlet detailing the rights of all Missourians.

One complaint the new executive director has about his job is money — not his salary but the entire budget for the 1963-65 biennium. Out of 26 states having similar commissions, Robertson observed, Missouri ranks near the bottom in expenditures.

The current budget of $48,000 is, however, a 25 per cent increase over the last budget period. But, in neighboring Kansas, the commission has a staff of four professionals while Robertson must "go it alone" in Missouri.

Without waving the flag or flaunting motherhood, Robertson is going about his almost thankless task philosophically. "The crushing of the human spirit is involved," he says.

European Industrial Tour
Being Promoted By Dalton

Recently, Governor John M. Dalton announced plans for leading a Missouri delegation to Europe in an effort to persuade industrial and financial leaders of the European Common Market nations that the "Showme State" would be a good investment.

Another purpose of the trip would be to seek expanding markets for Missouri-produced goods.

Currently a delegation of Missouri agriculture leaders is winding up a European tour in which they have been studying the hows and whys of foreign farming. It, too, is seeking more outlets for Missouri products.

These two trips point out the effort being made here to attract more industry into the state. Two previous junkets, one to New York and the other to California, have been described as highly enlightening and successful.

Now, a feasibility study is being conducted by the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development to determine the best potential industries for Missouri, with specialists later to be sent selling.

Marked Decline In Polio Cases

According to the Missouri Division of Health, not a single case of polio has been reported in the state this year, and hopeful of officials are keeping their fingers crossed for a continued "no-bitter."

Last year there were only 12 cases in Missouri, 27 the year before and 43 in 1960. These figures represent large drops from the 1949 high of 1,319. The decline of polio in Missouri is attributed largely to good immunization programs.

Castro's Cuba Today

By HAROLD LAVINE

(Last of a Series)

WASHINGTON — The Communists didn't hold a May Day parade in Cardenas this year. They didn't dare to. Six weeks later, on June 18, Fidel Castro inadvertently revealed why. He came to Cardenas screaming like a bearded Donald Duck. "The workers," he said, "would do well to remember that we are powerful enough to wipe them all out — to jail them all and to confiscate all they own in one day."

Cardenas has been a city in revolt since June 16, 1962.

On that day, Cardenas erupted. The populace spilled into the streets, waving placards and shouting denunciations of the government. The Havana radio denounced them as "little groups of counter-revolutionaries, parasites and lazy ones, bandits, thieves, dope fiends." Castro sent troops and tanks into the city and he also sent his puppet President, Osvaldo Dorticos, to warn the inhabitants that, if they didn't stop demonstrating against the government, he would take even more brutal measures.

The troops and tanks didn't intimidate Cardenas; nor did Dorticos. Which is why, more than a year and two weeks later, Castro found it necessary to shout threats at the populace again.

Jaguey Grande is another city in revolt. On May 22, Castro's troops confiscated 64 business establishments in Jaguey Grande because the proprietors were "cooperating with counter-revolutionaries." Afterward, Castro boasted: "The revolution has quick methods, magnificent methods, to wipe out (the counter-revolutionaries) as a class today."

Still another city in revolt is El Cano. What happened in El Cano earlier this year was described by a refugee: "Two citizens of El Cano were shot down by the Agents of Public Order. The public responded by closing down all businesses, retreating to their homes, and hanging black crepe from the windows. Angered by the Resistance, Castro's troops moved in and confiscated houses, businesses, farms, livestock, automobiles, personal possessions even including furniture. Two youths were arrested, charged with organizing the mass protest. They were thrown into a small brick structure. Sand was on the floor. Huge fans were put into operation. One died of suffocation; the other survived to tell the story."

Nobody, of course, knows how many of the Cuban people today oppose Castro. However, U. S. Intelligence agents still roam the island (some of them are in guerrilla bands) and they make this estimate (which is confirmed by "third sources"):

About 20 per cent of the Cubans are hard-core Communists; they will work for Fidel and fight for Fidel no matter what.

About 20 per cent of them are just as violently anti-Fidel. They'll stop at nothing to overthrow him.

The remaining 60 per cent hate Fidel, but they have wives, they have children; they're not the stuff of which heroes are made. They'll soldier on the job; they'll slip an iron bar into a batch of sugar cane they're loading; they'll jam a machine they're handling; they'll give food to a guerrilla they know — if they figure they can get away with it — but only if.

U. S. Intelligence officials agree that, until the 60 per cent rise in open war against Fidel, the Resistance has no chance of destroying the Communist dictatorship. And they agree, also, that what the 60 per cent do will depend completely on what the U. S. Government does. The average Cuban isn't much different from the average American: he's willing to die, if necessary, but he's not eager to commit suicide. Without all-out U. S. support, open revolt against the Communist dictatorship would be suicide.

The 20 per cent of violent anti-Fidelistas are keeping up the fight because they believe that sooner or later the U. S. will give them support. Perhaps it's a forlorn hope, but it keeps the Resistance alive.

Tremendous Gains Made By The American Negro

EDITOR'S NOTE — The American Negro has achieved tremendous gains in recent years—benefits of which leaders of today's equality drive never dreamed as youngsters. But, they say, there is still much to be done. The sixth in a special Associated Press series on the racial crisis.

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When Roy Wilkins was a boy in St. Louis, the doctrine of separate but equal facilities for Negroes stood unchallenged as the law of the land.

The eminent Negro Booker T. Washington counseled his people to work hard, get an education and, above all, do nothing to upset the delicate balance of peace between races.

There were no National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, no National Urban League, no sit-in, no freedom rides.

This was 60 years ago; 40 years after the Emancipation Proclamation and the 14th Amendment, which provided equal protection of the law to all citizens.

The other day, Wilkins, now 61, executive secretary of the NAACP and a leader in the current Negro drive, reminisced a bit and looked into the future.

"Things are happening in my lifetime now that I thought I would never live to see," he said. "I've seen goals that I dreamed of a young man suddenly attained."

"Several years ago Cincinnati, one of our largest cities, had a Negro vice mayor; last fall Massachusetts elected a Negro attorney general; Connecticut elected a Negro treasurer."

"When I was growing up in St. Louis and rooting for the Cardinals I always hoped for it and worked for it but I could never visualize a Hank Aaron or a Willie Mays or a Jackie Robinson."

Only 25 years ago, high hopes of Negroes revolved around an anti-lynching measure that failed to pass Congress. Now, some see the ultimate goal in sight.

"The ultimate goal is simply equal opportunity for all," says Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director of the Urban League.

"There will never be perfect equality—but there would not be an artificial barrier standing between a man and his potential."

"The millennium will have arrived when we see nothing unusual in a Negro occupying a high place in life; when we see Negroes in all situations and it is not a novelty."

Henry Lee Moon of the NAACP sees the ultimate Negro goal as the Negro and whiteman standing side by side as average people.

"A Negro should not have to be a Ralph Bunche or a Robert Weaver in order to take his rightful place in society," Moon said. "The big battle is to lower the barriers," says Wilkins.

"It's quite important to remember that the chief target is not private or personal prejudice—which may never be eliminated—the chief target is prejudice in public life that influences opportunities and rights."

"The goal is simply equal opportunities," says Jackie Robinson, the first Negro to play major league baseball and a member of the baseball Hall of Fame.

"There will be prejudice as long as people exist. There's prejudice in every group of people; even among members of the same family."

"There's prejudice on baseball teams—but it doesn't keep them from playing ball together. They have found that they can't win unless they play together."

Robinson may be considered to have it made. He's vice president of a restaurant chain and lives with his family in a fashionable suburb in Connecticut.

Still, he lends his name and presence to the Negro cause.

"Sure, I have quite a lot," he says. "And I also have three kids. What is going to happen to them? What opportunity will they have? 'Until the Negro in the deepest South has it made, I have to keep fighting.'"

Progress in education and politics, say Negro leaders, is moving fast; employment and housing are dragging their feet.

Says Moon: "The country is even more ghettoized now than it was at the turn of the century."

"A large number of Negroes have moved into the cities but they have only expanded the ghettos. Most cities in the north with their big ghettos are more segregated than the South."

"The area of employment will always lag behind the others," Robinson says. "A Negro does not have the same opportunity to learn a skill. If he applies for a job and can't pass the requirements in skill, the employer—and remember he's a businessman—says: 'Sorry. I'm in business. I have competitors. I have to compete with them. I can't hire you just because you're a Negro. My business would suffer.'"

Wilkins feels that the ultimate goals will be achieved "within our generation."

"He is so sure that he is starting to look beyond the goal of opportunity."

"There will be a lot of work to do in the Negro community after the barriers are down," he says. "The competition in the white world is fierce. And it has nothing to do with color prejudice. A Negro won't be able to hide behind the excuse: 'They did it because I was black.'"

"I don't entertain many fears that the Negro cannot compete in the white world. The good ones have already been sharpened by the extra competition of prejudice."

"If you unshackle the Negro, you'll find there are the weak ones, there are the fast buck guys, there are the con-men. But there are also the solid Sunday-

Give Research Hospital Grant Of $3 Million

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The William Volker fund has made a $3 million grant to the endowment fund of Research Hospital, it was announced Sunday at the dedication of the new $12.5 million building.

James P. Metzler, president of the hospital board, said income from the grant will be used to meet any possible operating deficiencies during early occupancy of the hospital.

Metzler credited the Volker Fund with making construction of the 10-story building possible. He said the fund took a $1 million mortgage on the old hospital, helped secure a $5 million bank loan, and promised the endowment if a $2.5 million public subscription drive succeeded. Success of the drive was announced Friday.

The fund was set up in 1932 by the late William Volker, Kansas City builder and philanthropist.

2 Youngsters Dead Inside Clothes Dryer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—An all-night search for two young playmates ended tragically as the grandfather of one of the youngsters found their bodies locked inside a clothes dryer.

A. D. Cummings found his grandson, David Wayne McClain, 6, and a playmate, Rickey Lee Spann, 3, inside the death trap early Sunday.

Coroner J. O. Butler said the boys had suffocated, probably dying within three minutes after the door of the dryer had closed behind them. The deaths were ruled accidental.

Kennedy Children Visit Mother

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—The President's son, John F. Kennedy Jr., watched photographers' flashing lights as he visited his mother's hospital suite Sunday night.

Looking out of their car with an air of one who had made a great discovery, the 2½-year-old youngster declared: "I betcha they're taking our picture."

President Kennedy, like everyone else who heard it, burst into laughter.

Hand-in-hand, the President had taken his two youngsters, John and Caroline, 5½, on separate visits Sunday to their mother.

Caroline, with a bouquet of garden flowers she picked herself and little John asking "Where's mommy?" all the way to her room, saw their mother for the first time since she was taken to the hospital Wednesday for the premature birth of a third child, Patrick Bouvier Kennedy. The infant lived less than two days.

The First Lady, 34, is reported continuing to make a splendid recovery. She got out of bed for the first time Sunday, took a walk in her suite and began to eat solid food, including hamburger.

The youngsters, aside from the reunion, were treated to a helicopter ride from their Squaw Island summer home near Hyannis Port, Mass., to this air base, a 22-mile flight.

Kennedy started his children's airlift after attending Mass at St. Francis Xavier Church in Hyannis Port.

The pastor, Msgr. Leonard J. Daley, extended his sympathy and that of his congregation.

"In our sorrow for them, we know one consolation is that they have given back to God, their Maker, a saint in heaven, praying for them in these troublesome times."

Persistent Thief Finally Succeeds

KANSAS CITY (AP)—This thief tried three times—and succeeded—Miss Diana Panich, 18, cashier at a shoe store in a shopping center, said the man paid her for a pair of shoe strings Sunday.

Then he told her he wanted four more pairs, apparently figuring she would leave the cash drawer open while she turned around to get the shoestrings.

From force of habit, however, she closed the drawer.

Thwarted, the man gave her a dollar for the other shoe strings. His change included some pennies which he dropped on the floor.

While Miss Panich stooped to pick them up, the man plucked $141 in bills from the open cash drawer and walked out.

ing for them in these troublesome times."

Kennedy planned to take off from Otis Air Force Base in mid-afternoon for his return to Washington.

The President's tragic five-day visit to Massachusetts began Wednesday morning when Mrs. Kennedy was taken to the hospital.

The baby, a 4 pound, 10½-ounce boy, had trouble with his breathing from the beginning. A specialist was called from the Boston Children's Medical Center and the baby was taken to the Boston center a few hours after birth.

Hook $4,900 in Bills

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Rampino, 28, his son Frank, 4, and brother-in-law, Richard Malfitan, 12, went fishing off Brooklyn Saturday. Their luck was lousy, no matter how you look at it.

Rampino, who hadn't caught a fish all day, hooked a wad of paper. Excitedly, he reeled it in—and unrolled 49 $100 bills.

After a quick trip home to talk it over with his wife, Rampino took the bills to a police station.

Detectives examined them briefly and gave him the word: "Counterfeit."

Jefferson City Bears Deal First Loss to the Chiefs

In First Round Play For Division Title

The Jefferson City Bears dealt the Sedalia Chiefs their first loss of the season Sunday night on the Liberty Park diamond. The final tally was 9-6 in the first game of a best of three playoff between the eastern and western champs for the Central Missouri Ban Johnson title.

The second game of the series will be at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Jefferson City, with the third game, if needed, at 8 p.m. Friday also in the capital city.

Terry Fletcher started on the mound for the Chiefs, with Don Wilhite relieving in the seventh with the score tied. Wilhite took the loss. Bill Clarkston went the distance on the mound for the Bears.

Eleven Sedalia errors spelled their doom, with two errors in the seventh helping the Bears tie the game after trailing 4-2, two in the eighth helping them take the lead, and four errors in the ninth giving them three insurance runs.

The scoring: Jefferson City picked up two runs in the top of the first, with two out. Bucky Waggoner tapped a base hit to short right. Read walked, and the pitcher Clarkston bounced a base hit to center over the pitcher's head, driving in one run, with the second run coming in on an error. Scott tapped out to end the inning.

Sedalia got into the game with three runs in the bottom of the fourth. Lange led off reaching first on an error by the third sacker. Dow then slugged the ball, bouncing it over the left field wall for a ground rule double. Ferguson dropped a base hit into center, with Lange scoring from third. On a pickoff play, the pitcher made a wild throw to third, and Dow scored. Barr picked up a base hit on a bunt, with the third run crossing the plate. Hassler fanned. Fletcher took first on a fielder's choice, and Schott lined the ball to center, good for a double play, catching the runner off second.

The locals picked up an insurance run in the sixth, to move the tally to 4-2. Ferguson led off with a double to left, going to third on a passed ball. Barr struck out, but Hassler tapped a ball to the shortstop, with the run scoring on an error by the catcher. Fletcher struck out, and Schott fled to left for the third out.

Jefferson City tied the game with two runs in the seventh. Wilson led off getting a base hit on a bouncing ball over the third baseman. Duncan singled to left. Bucky Waggoner popped out to center, but the runners took second and third on Schott's throw in. Read bounced out, third to first, with the runners holding.

Clarkston slammed a double down the third base line, driving in the two runners. Don Wilhite went in to replace Fletcher on the mound. Scott reached first on an error, but Irvin struck out to retire the side.

The Bears came home with two runs to take the lead in the top of the eighth. Corky Waggoner led off beating out a bunt and stealing second. Early Wine sacrificed Waggoner to third. Wilson bounced out, with Waggoner holding, third. Duncan then tapped to the pitcher, Wilhite, who booted the ball and made a bad throw to first, with one run scoring. Bucky Waggoner then put a hit into left, a run scoring. Wilhite then retired the side, with the score 6-4.

Jefferson City picked up three runs in the top of the ninth, moving their margin to 9-4. Clarkston, the pitcher, reached first on an error on third sacker Mooney. Scott popped out to center. Irvin took first on an error by shortstop Lange, going on to second and a run scoring. Corky Waggoner beat out a bunt and stole second. Wine popped to the first baseman. Wilson then got on after an error by shortstop Lange, with two runs scoring. Duncan slammed one through the middle, but the strikeout of Bucky Waggoner retired the side.

Sedalia rallied with two in the ninth. With one out, Schott slammed a base hit through the middle. Nichols got a base hit on a ball hit off the second baseman's glove, with runners going to second and third. Mooney walked to load the sacks. Lange then plugged a single, went to second on an error, with two runs scoring. Dow and Ferguson then bounced out to end the game, 9-6.

Young Golfer Wins First Big Effort

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (AP)—On 20-year-old Tom Weiskopf's first try in big time competitive golf he has come away a big winner.

The former Ohio State star romped off with the 61st Western Amateur Open Championship with a cool 5 and 4 victory over national amateur champion Labron Harris Jr. Sunday at Point O'Woods course.

Shooting one-under-par for the 14 holes of the final match, Weiskopf kept the pressure on his 21-year-old Stillwater, Okla., foe from the start.

Weiskopf, a crewcut blond from Bedford, Ohio, won the first two holes, held the margin through the 11th, and won the last three. He finished in a flourish, wedging out for a six-foot putt on the 13th and dropping a 15-foot birdie putt on the 14th.

Story Is Simple

Willie's Hitting; Giants Winning

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Mays is hitting and the Giants are winning. The National League story is as simple as that. With Willie still working on a 13-game hitting string, San Francisco has won 15 of its last 19. From 10 games back on July 20, the Giants now trail the Los Angeles Dodgers by only 3½ games with seven weeks to go.

The fellow who was quoting odds on a Dodger-Yankee World Series when the fight mob was in Las Vegas in late July must have revised his line. The Dodgers may win it but they are no "out" bet.

The front-line Dodger pitching faltered Sunday when Cincinnati knocked out Sandy Koufax in a six-run sixth inning enroute to a 9-4 victory on 16 hits.

The Giants made it three in a row over the Phillies, 5-1, on a five-hitter by Jack Sanford with ninth-inning assist from Billy Hoelt and Don Larsen. Mays doubled in two runs and held Wes Covington to a single with a fine play that could have been a turning point in the ball game. Covington had four of the five hits off Sanford including a homer.

Jerry Lynch provided the heroics at Pittsburgh with a two-run homer that gave the Pirates a 2-1 edge over Houston. Hal Brown had a 1-0 lead with two out in the ninth. Then Roberto Clemente singled and Lynch hit his 10th home run.

Tommy Cloninger turned in the top pitching job by striking out 11 St. Louis Cardinals while pitching a four-hitter for the Milwaukee Braves who beat Curt Simmons 9-1. Eddie Mathews hit a three-run homer for the Braves.

Dick Ellsworth won his 16th for the Chicago Cubs in the 3-1 opener but the New York Mets bounced back with a vengeance and clobbered the Cubs 11-4 for a split of their doubleheader.

Chuck Hiller drove in three runs for the Giants, two of them with a seventh-inning homer off John Boomer, the relief man for loser Cal McLish. Mays' key double in the fifth opened up a 3-0 Giant lead.

Frank Robinson launched a big sixth-inning rally for Cincinnati with his 16th homer. Koufax, rolling along with a 4-1 lead at the start of the sixth, was the victim.

Instead of his 19th victory, Sandy had to settle for his fifth defeat. Jim O'Toole won his 15th with help from Al Worthington. Frank Howard and Tommy Davis homered for Dodgers and Don Pavletich and Robinson for the Reds.

Brown and Joe Gibbon were locked in a tight battle all the way at Pittsburgh until Manager Danny Murtaugh lifted Gibbon for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Elroy Face, who worked only the ninth, was the winner on Lynch's homer.

Cloninger's 11 strikeouts set a new club high for the year. It was his eighth victory. Gene Oliver's two-run single was the key hit off Simmons in the sixth when the Braves scored three runs. Mathews' homer was hit off Sam Jones in the seventh.

The Mets and Cubs had a wild and wooly afternoon and early evening at the Polo Grounds. The Cubs chased Carl Willey in the first inning and rolled to victory behind Ellsworth in the opener. The Mets routed Bob Buhl in the second inning and rolled up a 10-0 lead in four innings. Lou Brock had 6 hits in the doubleheader and Ken Hubbs five for the Cubs.

For 2 Weeks Competition

US Swim Team To Tour Japan

CHICAGO (AP)—A U.S. national swimming and diving contingent, having captured nearly all the titles in the national AAU championships which ended Sunday, heads for a tour of Japan this week.

The squad of 16 swimmers and diver Larry Andrasen will arrive in Japan, scene of the 1964 Olympics, Tuesday to compete against a Japanese team for two weeks.

With the exception of Tom Stock and Ted Stickle, both of the powerful Indianapolis Athletic Club, every swimmer winning an AAU title in Oak Park over the weekend is represented in the touring team coached by Ralph Casey of Southern Illinois University and managed by Ken Treadway of Bartlesville, Okla.

Stock, winner of the 200-meter backstroke, and Stickle, the 400-meter individual medley champion, asked to be left off the team in order to devote the time to their studies at Indiana University.

Andrasen, a 17-year-old diver from Anaheim, Calif., and winner of the three-meter springboard competition, was chosen over Lt. Tom Gompf, an Air Force jet fighter pilot who captured the 10-meter platform event and finished a narrow 10 points ahead of Andrasen.

The team includes such record breakers as Don Schollander of Santa Clara, Calif., whose 4:17.7 in the 400-meter freestyle established an American citizen's record; Carl Robie of the Vesper Boat Club, Philadelphia who bettered his own American and met record in the 200-meter butterfly with 2:08.8; and Steve Clark of the Santa Clara Swim Club who surpassed his own American and met record in the 100-meter freestyle with 54.2.

Also on the team were Dick Roth, 200-meter individual medley champion from Santa Clara SC; Bill Craig, winner of 100-meter breaststroke from Verdugo Hills SC, Calif.; Wally Richardson of the Gopher SC, Minn., winner of the 100-meter butterfly; Roy Saari of El Segundo SC, Calif., the tiltist in the 1,500-meter freestyle; Ken Merten of Los Angeles, winner of the 200-meter breaststroke; and Rick McGreah, 100-meter breaststroke champion from Verdugo Hills SC.

They will be joined by Ralph Kendrick of Indianapolis AC; Bill Farley of Los Angeles AC; Ed Townsend of Santa Clara SC; Ed Bartsch of Ann Arbor, Mich.; Gary Ilman of Santa Clara; Don Coghill of Indianapolis and Richard McDonough of North Jersey SA.

Winding up Sunday's AAU competition, Roth upset Stickle in the 200-meter individual medley. Roth's 2:16.0 was 1.9 seconds better than Stickle's second-place finish and only one-tenth of a second off the meet and American record of 2:15.9, both held by Stickle.

The Indianapolis AC won the team title for the seventh straight year with 106½ points. The Santa Clara and Los Angeles clubs tied for second with 45 each.

Yanks Call Back Pinch Hitters

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's not had enough that the New York Yankees are making a rout of the American League pennant race in their usual fashion, but now they've come up with a new gimmick: They're sending up their pinch hitters two or three times a game.

So you get him out the first time he comes up and the second or third time he kicks your head in. Unfair? Well, not quite.

Take Elston Howard and Hector Lopez. Howard went in to bat for Yogi Berra in the eighth inning of Sunday's game with the Los Angeles Angels and flied out in routine fashion. In the same inning Lopez batted for Al Downing and also flied out. No damage done. But both of them stayed in the game.

So the Angels go into the ninth with a 4-1 lead and promptly retire the first two Yankees. But the next two draw walks and Howard comes up again. So Art Fowler comes on to face him. His first pitch lands in the left-field seats and it's a tie game.

So Lopez comes up again in the 10th with a runner on second and singles up the middle, driving in the tie-breaking run. He scored a second run a few minutes later on an Angel error.

So the Yankees win 6-4, extending their winning string to six, the Angels' losing string to seven and boosted the New York first-place margin over Chicago to nine full games.

The White Sox split a pair with Detroit, the Tigers winning the first 7-2 and the White Sox the second, 3-2 on Dave Nicholson's 18th homer of the season with one out in the 11th.

Minnesota closed to within a half game of the White Sox on the strength of their sixth straight victory, a 5-2 edge over Boston, while Cleveland edged Kansas City 2-1 and Baltimore beat Washington 6-2.

The Yankee victory at Los Angeles was their 19th in 25 games and their eighth in 10 extra-inning affairs this season. Howard's dramatic shot, his 23rd homer of the season, was the turning point.

In the 10th, winning pitcher Bill Stafford led off with a scratch single and went to second on Phil Linz' sacrifice. Lopez followed with run-scoring single, one out later scored on shortstop Jim Fregosi's error.

Nicholson's 11th-inning homer enabled the White Sox to salvage a split with Detroit and ruined a fine pitching effort by the Tigers' Frank Lary. He went all the way and allowed only seven hits. Gary Peters went the distance for the Sox with a six-hitter.

In the opener, the Tigers banged out 13 hits, including three each by Bubba Phillips and Al Kaline. A 3-run burst in the fifth broke a 2-2 tie and sent Detroit ahead to stay.

Don Mincher and Zoilo Ver-salles hit homers for the streaking Twins, and Camilo Pascual stopped Boston on five hits for his 14th victory. The Red Sox' Dick Stuart increased his league-leading home run total to 28 with a two-run shot in the sixth.

The Orioles got some big hitting from their pitchers in the victory over Washington. Starter and winner Milt Pappas hit a two-run homer, his first, and relief man Stu Miller cracked a bases-loaded triple.

Barry Latman threw a three-hitter at the Athletics, with all the A's safeties coming in the sixth inning. Cleveland gave him all the backing he needed with two first-inning runs on singles by Al Lappelow, Tito Francona and Fred Whitfield and a wild pitch.

2,000 Persons See Races At Thunderbowl

A crowd of about 2,000 witnessed an exciting, accident-filled night of racing Saturday at Thunderbowl Speedway.

On a track that became "about as slick as ice," even the old pros of the CMRA had their troubles. Before the racing schedule started, John Hammond, Sedalia, blew his right front tire, hitting the fence in the first turn. Hammond was not hurt, but his car was out of the night's action, reportedly with the front end torn entirely out from under his car.

Tom Maycock, Dover, had quite a night of it, winning both the "B" trophy dash and the "B" Feature races. Ken Taylor, coming from behind, took the "A" Feature win.

Russ Hibbard had the fast "A" time trial record, with 16.78. Tom Corbin had a blistering 17.73 for the "B" trials.

Winner of the "B" trophy dash was Tom Maycock, Dover, with a clocking of 1:11.92. Second and third places turned out to be a dead heat between Ernie Buso, Sedalia, and Donnie Hurd, Sweet Springs. Bill Bowlin, Carrollton, was fourth. The trophy was the first of the year for Maycock, in a beautifully driven race.

The "A" trophy dash went to Kenny Harper, Marshall, with a time of 1:07.02. Second was Bill Utz, Sedalia, with third and fourth being a dead heat between Russ Hibbard, Slater, and Don Cooper, Sedalia. Harper won the race, but not without plenty of competition from the rear.

The first "B" heat was taken by Merlyn McCown, Sedalia, with a time of 2:35.26. Butch Miller, Sedalia, was second; Dick Crank, Sedalia, third; Jim Darling, Knob Noster, fourth; and Russell Peetree, Sedalia, fifth. McCown, who has been building racers for several years has just recently entered the spotlight as a driver. This will probably not be his last victory at the wheel of a fast Hudson.

The "B" fast heat was won by Dave Gaudin, Malta Bend, who had a time of 2:30.39. Second was Don Hurd, Sweet Springs; third, Ray Dial, Osawatomie, Kan.; fourth, Tom Corbin, Carrollton; and fifth, Bob Kiser, Marshall. Ernie Buso and Tom Maycock locked wheels in front of the grandstand, spinning off into the infield just as the green flag was dropped to start the race. Maycock ran in third position for nine laps, but spun out in the number three turn. Gaudin moved from last place to win the race.

Phil Faulker, Windsor, won the first "A" heat with a clocking of 2:27.47. Tom Frazier, Jefferson City, was second; Jerry Markes, Dexter, third; and Dean Low, Dexter, fourth. Kenny Austin, Sedalia, was running in second place until the last lap when he locked wheels with Phil Faulker and spun sideways in the number four turn. Faulker was challenged for his first place slot several times, but wouldn't give it up.

The fast "A" heat was taken by Bill Utz, Sedalia, with a time of 2:20.71. Ken Taylor, Slater, was second, Kenny Harper, Marshall, third; Russ Hibbard, Slater, fourth; and Don Cooper, Sedalia, fifth. Harold Crombley, Marshall, spun out in the second turn in the fourth lap, putting him out of the race, but without major damage. Bill Utz took the lead and held it to, despite rough sledding with the fast field of cars behind him.

The "B" Feature winner was Tom Maycock, Dover. Second was Dave Gaudin, Malta Bend; third, Don Hurd, Sweet Springs; fourth, Ernie Buso, Sedalia; and fifth, Ray Dial, Osawatomie, Kan. Tom Corbin led the race for nine laps, but went out with mechanical trouble. In the seventh lap, Gene Markes, Marshall, spun out in the second turn, with the race continuing under yellow flags as Gene's car was removed. In the tenth lap, Bob Holder, Sedalia, spun out in the second turn, with the yellow flags broken out again while Holder's car was removed. At this point, the track became extremely slick, with the cars having trouble keeping traction.

In the 19th lap, Jim Darling blew his motor, with smoke billowing from the front. Also in the 19th lap, Bob Kiser, Marshall, who was running third, lost a front wheel and ran into the retaining wall in the first turn.

The "A" Feature was taken by Ken Taylor, Slater, with Russ Hibbard, Slater, copping second; Kenny Harper, Marshall, third; Don Cooper, Sedalia, fourth; and Dean Low, Dexter, fifth. With 14 of the most powerful cars in central Missouri on the track, quite a slick by this time, finishing first was really a job. In the first lap there was a chain of accidents that took about 45 minutes to unscramble. On the first start, Jim Jenkins, Marshall, went over the rim of the track on the back stretch, and the race had to be re-started. In trying to catch with the field of cars, Jenkins spun out in the second turn, and car D-8 lost control, spinning twice in the number two turn, with the race having to be re-started. Harold Crombley, Marshall, lost a wheel in the fourth turn and the un-

Cards Victims of Good Pitching

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas City and St. Louis were victims of outstanding pitching performances Sunday as the A's lost to Cleveland 2-1 and the Cards were shelled by Milwaukee 9-1.

Barry Latman put Kansas City down on three hits including Jose Tartabull's home run.

The Indians battered three Kansas City hurlers for 12 hits but left seven base runners stranded. However, Latman was staked to two runs in the first inning on three singles and a wild pitch and it proved to be all the margin he needed.

Orlando Pena was the starter and loser for Kansas City.

St. Louis was limited to four hits in Milwaukee by Tony Cloninger. The Cards scored their only run in the fourth inning. After walking George Altman, Cloninger threw past first base on Curt Flood's single and Altman scored on the error.

Curt Simmons started for the Cards and carried a 1-0 lead going into the sixth. Then Frank Bolling doubled, Henry Aaron walked and both runners advanced on an infield out and scored on Gene Oliver's single. Oliver scored on a single by Denis Menke.

Eddie Mathews hit a three-run homer for the Braves in the seventh.

Simmons took the loss, his sixth against 10 victories.

Kansas City and St. Louis are both idle today.

named grey car spun and collided with Crombley, leaving three cars sitting in the middle of the track.

The race had to be re-started after the cars were moved. Kenny Harper spun in the number one turn, with Ken Taylor colliding with the side of Harper's car. Don Cooper, trying to avoid the two cars hit the wall and bounced into Harper and Taylor. The cars were untangled and continued in the race. In the fourth lap, Jerry Markes, Dexter, spun in the number four turn and Kenny Austin went into the inside ditch in avoiding Markes. Neither car was damaged, but the race had to be re-started. In the seventh lap, Jerry Markes spun in the number three turn and was out of the race, although the race had to be re-started. In the tenth lap, Russ Hibbard slid into Bill Utz, putting Utz into a side spin which killed Utz's motor. The unnamed grey car stopped just short of Utz's car, and Don Cooper spun and stopped. Again the race was re-started, putting Utz at the end of the field of cars. Ken Taylor took first after starting in fifth place, being involved in an accident and having to re-start at the end of the field of cars, weeding his way through them on a slick track.

The first hobo race went to Walley Calvert, Sedalia, with a time of 3:22.25. Second was Bo Bo Baker, Columbia; third, Bill Shelly, Sedalia; fourth, Orville Petree, Sedalia; and fifth, Roy Parker, Sedalia. Baker had the lead in the first lap, but was overtaken by Calvert in the fifth. Calvert also took the second hobo race, with Orville Petree, Sedalia, coming in second; Bill Shelly, Sedalia, third; Dennis Keefe, fourth, and Bo Bo Baker, Columbia, fifth. Calvert got the lead in the first lap and took a runaway victory.

Gene Fuller Ponders Idea Of Retiring

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene Fuller, mauled, bruised and badly beaten in his effort to regain the world middle-weight boxing title returned to the United States to mull over the possibility of retirement.

"I have no plans for retiring and no plans for going on," Fuller said Sunday night en route to his home in West Jordan, Utah. "I'm going home to talk it over with my family."

The 32-year-old fighting Mormon was cut and battered and drenched with his own blood Saturday before suffering a seventh-round TKO at the hands of champion Dick Tiger in Ibadan, Nigeria.

His wife, Delores, said in West Jordan shortly after the fight that she hoped Gene, a former champion, would call it quits. Mrs. Fuller, who has refused to watch her husband fight, repeated that he had promised to retire if he failed to beat the Nigerian champion.

"He was a great champion," Mrs. Fuller said of her husband, "but we feel he should quit now."

The fight, the first title bout ever held in Nigeria, was scheduled for 15 rounds but Marv Jensen, Fuller's manager, asked that it be stopped at the end of the seventh when the bleeding Fuller was virtually defenseless against Tiger's two-handed attack.

"I wanted to stop it in the fifth," Jensen said. "But Gene insisted on going on."

There were no knockdowns, but Fuller was cut over the bridge of the nose and blinded in later rounds by a freely bleeding cut over the right eye. His body was marked by angry, red welts and the bruises still showed on his face Sunday.

"I guess he caught me a couple of times in the early rounds which must have knocked the sharpness out of me," Fuller said. "But right until the end I thought I had a chance."

The British referee, the only official, declined to say how he had scored the fight but The Associated Press had Tiger winning every round.

The Nigerian government underwrote the bout, putting up $250,000 in guarantees. Fuller was guaranteed $50,000 and $10,000 in expenses and Tiger $100,000.

The fight was the third between Tiger and Fuller. Tiger lifted title from Gene with a 15-round decision in San Francisco last year and they fought to a 15-round draw in Las Vegas earlier this year.

Litter Bug Drive Is Too Successful

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A Chamber of Commerce campaign against littering sidewalks, streets and parks has succeeded too well in several instances.

The chamber installed sidewalk trash baskets at strategic locations.

Claredon Rea, commissioner of refuse collection, reports the receptacles are being used too enthusiastically with garbage and tin cans being deposited in some.

Rea said he ordered removal of baskets in one area because they were too trashy. One basket, he said, contained 10 grocery sacks filled with beer cans.

Signs reading "Little Litter Bits, Please," have now been installed on the baskets, Rea said.

Ninth Kroger Store Bombed in 6 Months

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—A bomb caused heavy damage to a Kroger supermarket in East St. Louis early today. No injuries were reported.

It was the ninth bombing of Kroger stores in the St. Louis area since March. None of the bombings has been solved.

Almost simultaneously with today's blast, a policeman discovered a mysterious bundle at the entrance to a Kroger store in nearby Belleville, Ill.

The bundle was rushed to an open field. Munitions experts opened the bundle to find it contained only a brickbat.

Police said the bomb in East St. Louis apparently was planted inside the store. The blast caused a 24-foot section of wall and roof to collapse. Merchandise was scattered. Eight big display windows and two glass front doors were smashed.

Indians to Be Paid For 17 Million Acres

ATMORE, Ala. (AP) — After more than 150 years, the Creek Indians are about to be paid for more than 17 million acres of land the United States took from them.

An attorney, C. Lenoir Thompson told over 500 Creeks attending an Alexander McGillivray Day observance Sunday night that the U.S. Court of Claims would decide the amount they'll be paid.

He said the court already has promised a minimum payment of $3.94 million after court costs.

Malaysian Peace In Some Doubt

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—A series of armed clashes in Sarawak near the border with Indonesian Borneo raises the question of whether a U.N. endorsement will mean a good prospect of tranquility for the new nation of Malaysia.

The sound of automatic weapons fire shattered the jungle calm three times at the end of last week. The Sarawak government reported at least two raiders were wounded. The British officials said none of their security forces or Sarawak border guardsmen were hurt.

There have been a series of shooting encounters along the Sarawak-Indonesian border since an anti-British revolt failed in neighboring Borneo last December. Malaysian and British officials believe the raiders are trained and armed in Indonesian Borneo.

Indonesia and the Philippines agreed at their recent Manila summit meeting with Malaya to welcome formation of the new nation of Malaysia if U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant certified that the people of Sarawak and North Borneo favor the union with Malaya and Singapore.

The federation is scheduled to be inaugurated on Aug. 31. But because the U.N. poll now must be held, diplomats here expect the date to be delayed at least two weeks.

Indonesia, which called Malaysia a neo-colonialist plot, has made no attempt to disguise its support of elements bent on violence in northern Borneo. An Indonesian Embassy press release, distributed here during the Manila meeting, said refugees from Sarawak were being armed and trained to fight in northern Borneo.
